

Remembrance of death and its effects from the perspective of the Qur'an and narrations

•Mohammad Reza Zahedi ¹

Abstract

Allah created the human soul eternally and he will transmit it to the hereafter after we die. Therefore, human beings should not ignore the evolution of their soul, and it is necessary to prepare themselves in this world for the eternal life. The reasons that unbelievers fear death are nonbelieving in the resurrection, denying it and see death as destruction. Therefore, various factors, such as the lack of proper knowledge about death, lack of faith, committing sins, and being their records empty of good deeds, make them fearful of death. On the other hand, the more you are faithful and good doer, the less you fear death. According to religious teachings, the remembrance of death has important and undeniable effects on individual, social, worldly life and the hereafter.

Consequences and Descriptions of Piety from the Perspective of the Qur'an and Narrations

•Abdul Qayyum Sadir¹

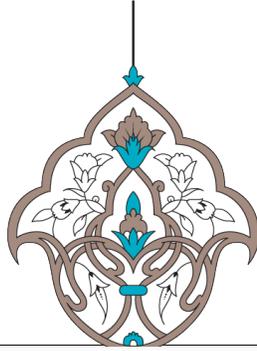

Abstract

If the human body needs care, training and growth, the human soul requires protection and development. Why do we wear clothes? It is not to restrict our body, but to protect it better. On the other hand, the aim of preserving our soul from injuries is to save it from impurity. The protection of spirit and soul is called «Taghwa»(piety). The word «Taghwa» comes from the word «weghayah», that means the protection of the soul from anything that damages it.

Key words: Quran, hadith, piety, soul, faith.
